Motion to Postpone to a Day Certain. — The motion to Postpone to a Day Certain is a debatable—on the merits of postponement— and amendable—as to the day—subsidiary motion; which is applicable to original main motions (including motions to Reconsider an original main motion), with any amendments or motions to Postpone Indefinitely, to Amend, to Re-refer, for Division of the Question, or for Consideration by Paragraph or Seriatim that may be pending, which travel with the motion to which it is applied; which takes precedence over the motion to which it is applied and the motions to Postpone Indefinitely, to Amend, to Re-refer, for Division of the Question, or for Consideration by Paragraph or Seriatim; which yields to all privileged motions, all applicable incidental motions, to a motion to Amend applied to it, and to motions to Limit Debate, for the Previous Question, and to Lay on the Table; which shall not be renewed without sufficient progress; and whose adoption shall have the effect of postponing the main motion, along with adhering, to a specified meeting of the Senate within the current session, wherein the postponed motion shall be placed on the unfinished business calendar of that meeting, and considering of the main motion along with all adhering motions shall be resumed upon the designated time.

RULE 33. Motion to Limit Debate. — The motion to Limit Debate is an undebatable and amendable—amendments being undebatable— subsidiary motion; which is applicable to any immediately pending debatable motion, to an entire series of pending debatable motions, or to any consecutive part of such a series beginning with the immediately pending question; which takes precedence over all debatable motions; which yields to all privileged motions, to all applicable incidental motions; to a motion to Amend applied to it, and to the motions for the Previous Question and to Lay on the Table; which shall not be renewed without sufficient progress; whose adoption has the effect of setting a fixed time for the close of debate, limiting the total time for debate, and/or limiting the length and number of speeches given by Senators, provided that any limitation shall have an equal effect on all Senators; and which requires a two-thirds vote for adoption.

RULE 34. Motion for the Previous Question. — The motion for the Previous Question is an undebatable and unamendable subsidiary motion; which is applicable to any immediately pending debatable or amendable motion, to an entire series of pending debatable or amendable motions, or to any consecutive part of such a series beginning with the immediately pending question; which takes precedence over all debatable or amendable motions to which it is applied, and over the motion to Limit Debate; which yields to all privileged motions, to all applicable incidental motions, and to the motion to Lay on the Table; which shall not be renewed without sufficient progress; whose adoption has the effect of immediately closing debate on, and preventing amendment of, the motion(s) to which it applies, and preventing the making of any other subsidiary motions except to Lay on the Table; and which requires a two-thirds vote for adoption.

RULE 35. Motion to Lay on the Table. — The motion to Lay on the Table is an undebatable and unamendable subsidiary motion; which is applicable to any main motion, including motions to Reconsider a main motion; which takes precedence over the motion to which it is applied, all other subsidiary motions, and over any incidental motions that are pending when it is made; which yields to all privileged motions and to motions incidental to itself; which shall not be renewed without sufficient progress; whose adoption has the effect of laying aside the target motion alongside all motions adhering to it (and motions adhering to such motions and so on).

RULE 36. Motion to Recess. — The motion to Recess is an undebatable and amendable privileged motion; which takes precedence over the main motion, all subsidiary and incidental motions, and over all privileged motions other than to Adjourn; which yields to motions to Amend or for the Previous Question applied to itself, to privileged motions to Adjourn, and to motions incidental to itself; and whose adoption has the effect of entering the Senate into an immediate recess for the specified time.

RULE 37. Motion to Adjourn. — The motion to Adjourn is an undebatable and amendable privileged motion; which takes precedence over all other motions; which yields to motions to Amend or for the Previous Question applied to itself; and whose adoption has the effect of closing the meeting, and if specified, scheduling an adjourned meeting of the Senate at a particular place and hour whereupon the roll shall be called and the business of the meeting adjourned shall continue as if it never ceased. It shall be in order only at the designated time, or when no quorum is present and in the opinion of the Sergeant-at-Arms (or the individual(s) sent for absent Senators pursuant to Rule 6) no quorum is likely to be attained.

RULE 38. Motion for Division of the Question. — The motion for Division of the Question is an undebatable and amendable incidental motion; which is applicable to main motions and motions to Amend; which takes precedence over the main motion, the motion to Postpone Indefinitely, and to any motion to Amend to which it is applied; which yields to all subsidiary motions except to Postpone Indefinitely, to Amend (except when applied to itself), and to Limit Debate, to all privileged motions, and to all applicable incidental motions; and whose adoption has the effect of dividing a motion which consists of several parts—each of which is capable of standing alone if the others are removed—into said parts to be considered and voted on as if they were distinct questions. At the discretion of the Senate, the divided parts may be debated concurrently, wherein the Presiding Officer shall put the question on each divided part one after another without interruption; otherwise the motion shall specify how the division shall affect or apportion any limitation on debate if any be currently imposed.

RULE 39. Motion to Take from the Table. — The motion to Take from the Table is an unamendable and undebatable motion; which is applicable to any question which currently lies upon the table, with some business having been transacted or dealt with since the question was laid upon the table; which takes precedence over no motion except that it takes precedence over a main motion which has been moved, or whose designated time has just arrived, but has not been stated by the Presiding Officer; which yields to privileged and incidental motions; which may not be reconsidered and shall not be renewed without sufficient progress; and whose adoption has the effect of removing a question from the table and placing it, alongside any ultimately adhering motions, back before the Senate for consideration, picking up exactly where the Senate left off. Furthermore—

- (a) It must be moved at a time when the calendar to which the question belonged upon being tabled is under consideration, or during unfinished business or General Orders—including immediately after General Orders conclude.

- (b) If a Senator intends to offer such a motion applied to a question tabled on a prior legislative day, they shall notify the Speaker of this intent, who shall add such a notation in an appendix to the Agenda to constitute public notice. Otherwise, it must be added to the Agenda pursuant to Rule 9.

RULE 40. Motion to Reconsider. — The motion to Reconsider is a debatable—only when the motion to be reconsidered is debatable—and unamendable motion; which is applicable to any previously carried or lost motion still capable of being reversed by the Senate alone, which cannot be renewed, the object of whose reversal cannot be accomplished in another defined manner¹; which has only the same rank as the motion to be reconsidered with regards to taking precedence over and yielding to subsidiary and privileged motions not applied to itself; which additionally yields to the motions to Lay on the Table, to Postpone to a Day Certain, to Limit Debate and for the Previous Question when applied to itself; which shall not be renewed with respect to the same question except by consent or suspension, and which may not be reconsidered; whose adoption has the effect of bringing a previously decided motion back before the Senate once more for consideration; which requires a two-thirds vote for adoption in the case of a rejected motion to remove an item of legislation from the Unfavorable Calendar; and which may only be made by a Senator who voted on the prevailing side, provided that in cases of unanimous consent all Senators present are considered to have done so. Furthermore—

- (a) If a motion to Reconsider is laid upon the table, and the motion to which it adheres can no longer be reconsidered, it ceases to be;
- (b) When a motion to Reconsider applied to legislation is offered and seconded, action deriving from the legislation is suspended until the motion to Reconsider is either finally disposed of or the Senate adjourns with the motion to Reconsider laid upon the table;
- (c) If a Senator intends to offer such a motion applied to a question disposed of during a previous meeting, they shall notify the Speaker of this intent, who shall add such a notation in an appendix to the Agenda to constitute public notice. - (b) No bill or resolution, identical to another, shall be introduced.

¹ e.g. the reversal of a motion to Lay on the Table by a motion to Take from the Table

- (c) No subsidiary or incidental motion shall be renewed (that is, offered again after having been rejected) without authorization in these Rules.

RULE 42. Withdrawal of Motions. — Any motion may be withdrawn by the mover at any time before being stated by the Presiding Officer, otherwise motions may only be withdrawn with leave of the Senate.

IV. DEBATE

RULE 43. Presentation. — After having stated the question on an item of legislation—other than the Budget Bill (which shall be considered per Rule 43.1) or a Resolution of Impeachment (considered per Rule 95)—that was reported from a (sub-)committee (excluding the Committee of the Whole, in which case the Senate shall simply proceed to regular debate), the Presiding Officer shall recognize the chair(s)—or their designee(s)—of the (sub-)committee(s) (in order of consideration if serially referred) which reported on the bill: for the purpose of presenting the report of the committee on the item if there be any beyond simply having reported the item favorably/without prejudice/unfavorably and/or adopted amendments, and otherwise for the purpose of summarizing anything they see as relevant from committee’s deliberations. Afterwards or otherwise, —

(a) for a bill or resolution:

- (i) the Presiding Officer shall recognize the principal sponsor or first present and willing cosponsor if the principal sponsor is absent of the bill or resolution for the purpose of presenting the bill or resolution; afterwards or otherwise the Senate shall proceed into regular debate with questioning—directed to the principal sponsor or substitute cosponsor, on any matter germane to the business—explicitly authorized.

(b) for a docket item approving a nomination:

- (i) the Presiding Officer shall—if there be no objections—recognize the appointer or their representative for the purpose of introducing the nominee; afterwards or otherwise the nominee—if present—shall be recognized for the purposes of introducing themselves and explaining their goals and qualifications; afterwards or otherwise the Senate shall proceed into regular debate with questioning—directed to the nominee, on any matter—explicitly authorized.

If none of the above scenarios apply, the Senate shall then proceed into regular debate.

RULE 43.1. Presentation of Budget Bill. —

(a) After having stated the question on the Budget Bill,

- (i) the Presiding Officer shall recognize the Chair of the Standing Committee on Finance and Appropriations—or their designee, in which case said designee shall exercise all functions of the Chair of the Standing Committee on Finance and Appropriations with respect to the consideration of the Budget Bill—who shall present the Budget Bill to the Senate, and shall highlight all relevant information; afterwards

- (ii) the Senate shall proceed into regular debate with questioning—directed to the Chair of the Standing Committee on Finance and Appropriations or any representative of the Student Organizations which would receive funding, relevant to the funding being appropriated—explicitly authorized, and the Presiding Officer in this case shall without question invoke their Rule 43.2(b) power.
- (b) During the period in which the Budget Bill is pending, no subsidiary motion except to Amend shall be in order, the question of adjournment shall be dilatory outside an emergency, and any amendments—not having been adopted by consent—shall be considered under a limitation of debate, wherein
- (i) the mover of the amendment shall control five minutes of time for the purpose of supporting the amendment; which they may use themselves or yield to other Senators; and
 - (ii) the mover of the motion to be amended—the Chair of the Standing Committee on Finance and Appropriations in the case of the Budget Bill itself—shall control five minutes of time for the purpose of opposing the amendment; which they may use themselves or yield to other Senators; provided that,
 - (iii) the Presiding Officer shall alternate between asking the mover of the amendment and the mover of the motion to be amended whether they have desire to speak or yield some time to another to speak; once neither have any such desire debate shall be elapsed on the amendment;
 - (iv) if the Chair of the Standing Committee on Finance and Appropriations supports the amendment, but other Senator(s) do not, the Senate shall elect a principal opponent of the amendment, who shall thus control the respective five minutes of time; and that,
 - (v) Senators wishing to offer subsidiary amendments shall be recognized in preference to debate on the question.
- (c) The question of the passage of the Budget Bill shall be put once there be no further debate or amendments.
- (d) In the event that the Budget Bill fails, the Senate shall immediately enter a fifteen (15) minutes recess, wherein Senators shall discuss potential amendments to the Bill or other measures to secure its passage, and afterwards, the Senate shall again, for no longer than an hour, consider the Budget Bill as if it had been successfully reconsidered, and during this consideration there shall be amendments but no debate nor higher-order amendments, wherein amendments shall be considered under the same rules as under (b) provided that both sides shall control two rather than five minutes, and once either an hour elapse or there be no further amendments, the question on the Budget Bill shall again be put.

RULE 43.2. Questioning. —

- (a) When questioning is explicitly authorized pursuant to Rule 43 or Rule 43.1, Senators recognized to speak may direct questions regarding the specified matter(s) to the specified individual(s), who shall then be recognized to speak in response.²
- (b) The Presiding Officer shall be empowered to, upon the Senate entering into regular debate with questioning explicitly authorized, call for questions made under (a) and recognize their offering with preference, until the exhaustion of questions, though this shall cease if ordered, without debate, by majority vote; during the exercise of such power no Senator shall be recognized sequentially for the purpose of offering questions unless by consent.
- (c) Furthermore, when (b) is not in effect, any Senator may direct a question to another Senator—or, by consent or majority vote without debate, any individual—who shall be recognized for the purpose of answering it; provided that if a limitation on debate is in effect this shall not apply unless the limitation itself establishes provisions governing questioning.

RULE 43A. Recognition. — The Presiding Officer shall recognize those Senators who wish to speak or offer motions when they may request recognition. None shall speak until recognized, beyond Senators when requesting recognition.

RULE 44. Speaking Privileges. — Unless otherwise provided within these Rules, no non-Senator shall be recognized. Therein, immediately prior to consideration of the item of legislation, the committee shall consider the question that a public hearing be held, and, if adopted, shall then immediately consider the scheduling of the hearing (which may include ordering a special committee meeting), and then shall immediately consider the adoption of rules governing the hearing, and once rules be adopted, the item of legislation

² when (b) is not in effect, this only differs from regular debate if authorized towards a non-Senator

At such a hearing any member of the public may speak on any subject germane to the legislation in question, and the committee shall not take any action on the legislation prior to the conclusion of the hearing once it has begun.

RULE 46. Investigatory Hearings. — Any committee or subcommittee of the Senate shall, at the discretion of the chair, by petition of five (5) Senators serving on the committee (or a majority of Senators with voting privileges who are voting committee members if that number be lesser than five), by vote of the (sub)committee in question, or by order of the Senate or the parent committee in the case of subcommittees, conduct investigatory hearings whose purpose shall be to gather information, including facts and opinions, on issues and subjects relevant to the work of the Senate or of interest to the Student Body. The committee may call witnesses—who may be examined under Oath, and may be accompanied by any student acting as their counsel for the purpose of advising them concerning their rights—and compel testimony relevant to any matter properly before the committee, provided that no student shall be subpoenaed or otherwise compelled to testify, except by a committee chair or a majority vote of the committee, and any student shall be notified at least five business days prior to the time ordered to appear. Any objection to the propriety of a question shall only be sustained by majority vote of the committee. At the conclusion of such a hearing, the committee shall be empowered to introduce RULE 47. General Direction. — The Presiding Officer shall be responsible for preserving order and decorum, shall have general direction of the Hall of the Senate and shall be authorized to take such action as is necessary to maintain order, and in case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct in the galleries or lobbies, shall have the power to order those areas cleared. RULE 48. Limitations on Debate. — There shall exist no limitations on the amount of time a Senator may speak on any debatable question, limitations on the time for consideration of such question, or limitations on the number of times a Senator may speak on any question unless such limitations be adopted by a two-thirds (2/3) vote pursuant to Rule 33, or the Previous Question be called pursuant to Rule 34. There shall be no other limitations on the content of debate of any Senator, and there shall exist no requirement that a motion to enter debate be sustained in order for debate on a debatable question to occur. Any Senator may address the Senate from the well of the Senate. Senators may only yield the floor to another if limitations on debate have been adopted that authorize such structure. This Rule shall not at any time be subject to suspension.

RULE 48.1. Cloture. — If a petition to invoke cloture on a particular item of legislation is delivered to the Presiding Officer, the signatures of three-fifths (3/5) of present Senators with voting privileges having been ascribed, then the Presiding Officer shall certify cloture. When cloture is in effect, debate shall be limited to no more than two (2) hours, counted after the certification of cloture, and no non-Senator shall be recognized notwithstanding any other provisions of these Rules.

RULE 48.2. Contested Issues. — At the discretion of the Presiding Officer, or by order of the Senate upon a non-debatable incidental motion, any business before the Senate may be designated or undesignated as a contested issue. Therein, debate shall alternate between those wishing to speak for the business, to the business, and against the business. This designation may be removed by order of the Senate upon a non-debatable incidental motion, or by the Presiding Office if the designation was made at their discretion.

- (c) When a Senator is speaking, no Senator shall pass between them and the Presiding Officer.

RULE 50. Right of Reply. — Should a speaker reference another Senator whilst speaking, the offended party may request the right of reply, either immediately after the speaker has finished or, if their speech was ruled out of order, immediately after such a ruling. The offended party must be referenced by name, position, or another clearly identifiable language, and statements such as “A previous speaker” shall be deemed sufficiently vague for the right of replies not to be in order, unless the reference be deemed obvious to any informed listener. Such a right may only be used to address the comments regarding the offended party, and any other use shall be deemed out of order.

RULE 51. Freedom of Speech. — At no time may a Senator be subjected to court proceedings or disciplinary action or otherwise called to account outside The Senate for a vote cast or for any speech or debate in The Senate or in any of its committees.

The raising of a question of privilege shall take precedence over all motions except to Recess and to Adjourn. The Presiding Officer shall, subject to undebatable appeal, determine whether the question raised is one of privilege. It shall either be handled and resolved as an informal request, or handled as a formal question, subject to debate or amendment (for example entering into closed session).

RULE 53. Parliamentary Inquiry. — When a Senator requires clarification with regards to an element of parliamentary procedure, they may direct such an inquiry to the Presiding Officer—interrupting a speaker only if truly required—and they shall provide such clarification, consulting as need be.

RULE 54. Questions of Order. — A question of order may be raised at any point by a Senator, including whilst another is speaking, and, unless submitted to the Senate by the Presiding Officer, shall be decided by the Presiding Officer without debate, subject to an appeal to the Senate by any Senator. An appeal (or question of order submitted to the Senate) shall be debatable unless the Senate be currently considering an undebatable question or another appeal (or question of order submitted to the Senate). During the consideration of an appeal or a question of order submitted to the Senate, no motion other than to Recess or to Adjourn shall be in order, except if it be debatable, in which case motions to Limit Debate or for the Previous Question shall also be in order. In the event that these Rules do not provide for or cover any raised question of order, the latest edition of Robert's Rules of Order alongside the ancient rituals and traditions of the Senate shall be persuasive authority. The Secretary shall maintain as an appendix (including the text of the point and/or ruling) a compilation of those known instances where a question of order was submitted to the Senate or where the ruling of the Presiding Officer was overturned.

RULE 55. Speeches Ruled Out of Order. — When a speaker is called to order for words spoken, they shall take their seat until it is determined whether they were in fact out of order, and if so, shall not proceed without the permission of the Senate, granted without debate. If a speaker is called to order for words spoken, the words to which an exception is made shall be immediately written in the minutes by the Secretary.

V. VOTING

RULE 57. Roll Call. — Voting shall be by Roll Call, except where provided otherwise. Senators shall vote “yea [with rights]”, “nay [with rights]”, or “abstain”. The yeas and nays, along with abstentions and spoilt ballots, of all votes (by Roll Call or by Recorded Ballot) shall always be entered into the Journal. If a Senator chooses to vote “yea with rights” or “nay with rights”, then immediately upon the announcement of the result of the vote, the Presiding Officer shall recognize all such Senators in order of votes cast, and for no more than ninety (90) seconds, for the purpose of explaining their vote. This rule shall not be suspended at any time. The Roll shall be sorted at discretion of the Speaker.

RULE 58. Secret Ballot Prohibited. — The Senate shall be absolutely prohibited from use of the secret ballot. This rule shall not be suspended at any time.

They consist entirely of a succinct title which entirely describes the question for consideration, such that all docket items considered in an entire Senate session may be recorded in one document. They have no sponsors/cosponsors/signatories and may only be amended as explicitly prescribed, but apart from these characteristics they have the same properties as a resolution.
